

MEDICARE-MEDICAID

INTEGRATION ALLIANCE

Working toward solutions to improve healthcare and services for 12 million people

12 million people in the United States are covered by both Medicare and Medicaid, including older adults and people with multiple chronic illnesses. Coordinating care between the programs is challenging, frustrating people trying to understand and access their benefits, get assistance from navigators, and more.

While the complex medical and long-term care needs of people enrolled in both Medicare and Medicaid contribute to high costs, the disjointed lack of integration also drives considerable expense.

The Medicare–Medicaid Integration Alliance is a coalition of consumer and healthcare organizations committed to improving healthcare and services for the more than 12 million people in the United States who receive care from both Medicare and Medicaid.
